ANNUAL CONCERT

Woman's College Gives Fine Entertainment With Big Program.

Friends, fellow-students, relatives, and guests crowded to its capacity the palm-bedecked chapel of the Woman's College last night, when the annual concert, one of the most delightful features of the closing exercises of that institution, was given by the students of the voice and the piano.

Beginning with the overture to Rossini's "Semiramide," arranged for four hands, and closing with a charming nocturne for female voices, the program contained many interesting selections, each of which was heartily applauded, many of them so enthusiastically that additional numbers were of necessity given by the young musicians.

The singers were all pupils of Mrs. Melvin A. Martin, and the pianists were students under Jacob Reinhardt, A. P. Unkel, and Mrs. M. V. Armstrong, while Miss Mary Reams supplied the unusually good accompaniments.

The complete program given follows:

Overture, "Semiramide," Ivo Ossini; Misses Olive Simmons, Ivo Ossini, Josie Chamberlain, Lucile Bell.

Voice, "My Mother Bids Me Bind My Hair," Miss Lucy Pool; Haydn; Miss Elizabeth Kinsey; Scott-Clark.

Salterelle, "Scotsman-Clark," Miss Elizabeth Kinsey; Schubert-Liszt.

WILL SIGN TREATY OF PEACE TO-DAY

Balkan Allies and Turkey Finally Have Come to Terms.

London, May 29.—The treaty of peace between the Balkan allies and Turkey, which will be known as the peace of London, will be signed at noon to-morrow at St. James' palace unless some unexpected hitch occurs. Serbia has followed Greece in reluctant orders to her delegates to sign, Turkey and Bulgaria indicated their willingness sometime ago, and it is assumed Montenegro will sign.

Greece held out for the addition of a protocol until the last moment when she was assured by Turkey that all conventions prevailing before the war would resume their effectiveness until an opportunity was given to discuss the points at issue.

The protocol which Greece wanted appended to the treaty embodied reservations by the allies on points yet to be discussed with the powers, such as the financial post bellum settlement, the fate of Aegean islands and the frontiers of Albania.

Bulgaria and Turkey refused absolutely to have anything to do with a protocol, the former regarding it as too likely to open fresh and undesirable discussions, the latter as betraying a lack of deference to the powers.

While the peace of London may end the war in Turkey, it may be the signal for strife among the allies.

As the peace of London may end the war in Turkey, it may be the signal for strife among the allies.

drunk without my knowing it."

"What, if any, liquor have you ever seen him use?"

"Only in milk punches. He used brandy in the milk. I don't know how many times."

"Like All Milk Punches."

When Mr. Pound asked how the milk punches were made the witness hesitated a moment and then replied, "Like milk punches are always made."

"Did he ever use liquors as a stimulant on hard trips?"

"He never was stimulated by any wine he ever drank."

"On the primary trip was he ever under influence of liquor in the slightest degree?"

"Never in the slightest degree."

Impressive and inspiring spectacles formed the rear of the parade. One thousand mounted veterans, preceded by a cavalry corps of the late General Nathan Bedford Forrest, who won the name of the "Wizard of the Saddle" during the War Between the States, composed this section. General H. A. Taylor, commanded.

The veterans for the first time since the War Between the States were mounted on United States cavalry horses. Many humorous scenes were enacted, while the members of the Eleventh United States Cavalry turned over their mounts to the aged veterans. Some of the soldiers had to be assisted into the saddle, but all maintained their seats during the parade, despite the capers of the prancing steeds.

This afternoon the "Pied Piper of Hamelin" was presented in a local park by several hundred school children in honor of the veterans.

In an official memorial to the United Confederate Veterans to-night General Young calls attention to the significance attached to the furnishing of the government horses to the veterans for to-day's parade. The memorial in part follows:

"Tents and cots have been tendered by the United States government, but never before have the Confederate veterans been supplied with government horses for their annual parade. This act of the government towards the people of Chattanooga and towards the veterans is most highly appreciated. Surely this action indicates that all the bitter feeling of the war has passed away."

In no other country in the world, save this great republic, has such a thing ever been possible. It speaks volumes for the spirit that dominates the greatest republic of the world. It shows that in fifty years the passion of the most extended civil war in history has been replaced by a comradeship which is superior to any peace monument."

To-night reunion week was closed with a grand ball tendered to the Sons of Confederate Veterans, who met simultaneously with the United Confederate Veterans.

The ball was held at the Hotel Richmond, and was a most successful affair. The program was well arranged, and the dancing was kept up until a late hour.

The Corley Company

"The House That Made Richmond Musical"

who won fame in the defense of Fort Seybert on the south branch of the Potomac. Her oldest brother, William, entered the Confederate service early in the war, belonging to Company H, Thirty-first Virginia, and was killed at Winchester, in his twenty-seventh year.

An interesting and significant incident of her early life is recalled: During the war, when the records of the clerk's office had been removed, and concealed, with other valuables, the county officers were at a loss to care for revenues. It is said that John M. Rexrode, then sheriff, carried the county's revenue with him in saddlebags for a time, but came near being robbed, after which Miss Seybert was made custodian, caring for these valuables during the closing months of the war.

She had been a member of the Methodist Church since early life, and the funeral service was held by the pastor, Rev. L. L. Lowance, assisted by a former pastor, Rev. W. A. Hammond, and Josiah Beverage. Interment was in the home burying ground at 11 o'clock Tuesday.

Mrs. Lewis Martin. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Pulaski, Va., May 29.—Mrs. Mary Carter Martin, widow of Lewis Martin, died suddenly yesterday morning at her home on Fifth Street, death being due to heart disease. She is survived by these children: John Martin, of Portsmouth; Mrs. George Chandler, of Northfork, W. Va.; Mrs. George Chandler, of Misses Mary and Callie Martin and William Martin, of Pulaski. The funeral will be held on Friday. She was seventy-one years of age.

Captain John M. Lewis. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Danville, Va., May 29.—Captain John M. Lewis, a Kentuckian by birth, but who fought in the Union ranks during the war, died here to-night, in the General Hospital, in his seventy-eighth year. For the past several months he has been failing. For five years he held the position as guardian of the National Cemetery, and was widely known in Idaho. He leaves two daughters in Idaho.

Harrisburg, Pa., May 29.—Mrs. Dora Graichen Feuchtenberger died last night. She was born in Germany in 1841, coming to this country at the age of sixteen. She united with the Lutheran Church in Germany. She leaves husband and eight children. The funeral will be held Friday afternoon.
